HOMEOPATHIC MEDICINE

In 1796, after six years of experimentation, Dr. Samuel Hahnemann, the founder of Homeopathy, published his findings in a German medical journal. The concept of this wonderful medical system spread very quickly all over the world. By 1892, the United States had over four hundred state & county Homeopathic Associations and by 1912, there were one hundred & ninety five Homeopathic Hospitals, nine of which had over one hundred beds.

Homeopathy is a system of medicine whose principles are even older than Hippocrates. It seeks to cure in accordance with natural laws of healing and uses medicine made from natural substances, animals, vegetables and minerals. The basic concept of Homeopathy is similar to the concept of 'Vaccines' i.e. law of similar, with the body's ability to heal itself, which was originally described by Hindu sages in the 10th century B.C. and later promoted by Hippocrates, the father of modern medicine in 400 BC. Homeopathic medicine is practiced all over the world, including Asia, Africa, Europe, Middle East and North America.
